

LIVING FAITH MINISTRIES INTERNATIONAL

Oh, Give Me a Home...

In our search for a permanent location for our ministry center/church, we learned of an ideal property that was about to be put on the market. We headed over immediately to view it and were all thrilled with its size and location. It housed a widow, her 5 grown children, and 4 grandchildren. While talking about the details of the sale, the owner, Marie, burst into tears. We soon learned that she did not want to sell her home, but had no choice because of debts her husband had left.

After a quick discussion, we realized that we could not build our church on the tears of this unfortunate widow and we would have to look elsewhere for our "home." We met with her creditors and paid her debts in full; her tears of sorrow now replaced with tears of joy. Her children call it a miracle from God- a miracle that you helped to happen.

A DISCOURAGING WORD

A precious couple in our congregation (wife is American and husband is Mexican), tearfully shared their concern that she was going to get deported. Despite hiring a lawyer and working with immigration for months, her deadline was Thursday and, if nothing happened by then, she could be arrested and/or deported. To make matters worse, their own lawyer expressed strong anti-foreigner sentiments and quit- even though they had already paid him. The church prayed for them, but daily trips to the office produced nothing. At Wednesday's prayer meeting, she said her goodbyes and we prayed over them again. The next morning, a judge suddenly granted her visa. Another answered prayer.

THIRD-WORLD MEDICINE

During a recent trip to the “Invación” (the name given to the slums), Alan passed a wooden shack right as a toddler fell from the window. Rushing over to help the bleeding and dazed child, he offered the family a ride to the hospital. Arriving at the free hospital for the poor, an attendant wiped down the child’s bleeding head, affixed a bandage, and sent them on their way. Needless to say, Alan took the child to another hospital where she received proper medical care.

This month alone, we have assisted 10 people (mostly children) in receiving urgently needed medical attention. Join us in praying for the Lord to bring us a medical professional living in this area who is willing to help us with medical missions. Read more about our medical mission in the Blogs section of our website.

Safety is not foremost here, as is apparent from this water cooler dripping on two electrical plugs at our local clinic.
